Each match racing series will be a set of races between the second and third placed boats followed by a set between the winner of that set and the division winner. Each set is to be a 'best of three' races, the winner is the first to win two races.

Race Organization

The sailors coming 1st, 2nd and 3rd at the end of the Divisional Series for the first half of the year qualify for these series. B Division for the Fraser Cup and C Division for the McCaw Cup.

Each series of match races will be of three races, or more if the competitors agree prior to the start.

The boat coming first in the divisional series goes automatically into the final.

2nd versus 3rd

The winner is the first to two races. All races must be completed by the end of the Winter series. If the races are not completed then the boat leading the series qualifies for the final. If no races had yet been sailed then the boat who has attended the most days in the Winter Series qualifies, if this is a tie then the boat finishing second qualifies.

The races can be held either before or after the day's sailing, at the agreement of both parties. Further, prior to the start of an Aggregate Match Racing day race between the parties agreement can be reached for the that race to be counted towards qualification for the final.

Final

The winner of 2nd versus 3rd series will race the 1st placed boat for the Trophy.

All races must be completed by the end of the Spring series.

If the series has not been decided by the end of the spring series, the standings in the current series plus the results of any match races between the two sailed in the Aggregate Match Racing series are counted (ignoring any counted towards the current standings already). If this results in a tie then the boat that was present at more Spring Series days wins. If this results in a tie then the boat that finishes ahead of the other in the second Divisional Series wins the Trophy.
